

Easter Egg-Citement

JOE FOREMAN / THE OPINION-TRIBUNE

Mother Nature provided a picture-perfect day for the annual Easter Hunt Eggstravaganza Saturday at Glenwood Lake Park. The event attracted around 300 children and their parents to the park. In addition to collecting treats and prizes, children also had the opportunity to have their photo taken with the Easter Bunny and enjoy a cup of hot cocoa. At left, 6-year-old Emerson Swanson poses with the bunny. Children are shown filling their Easter baskets in the upper and lower photos. The event was sponsored by the Mills County YMCA with support and assistance from Kiwanis, the Mills County Historical Society, Tri-Valley Bank, Dollar General, Country Cousins 4-H Club and former Optimist club members. Mills County dispatcher honored for helping save young child's life

Dawn Christensen became a 911 dispatcher because she wanted to make a positive difference in the lives of others - just like the dispatcher who helped save her son Ryan's life 23 years ago.

"The reason I became a 911 dispatcher is in 2000, my son, who was under 2 years old, had a seizure and stopped breathing. Me, being a very young mom at the time, I didn't know how to do CPR so I called 911," Christensen recalled. "The Pott County dispatcher walked me through CPR for my son and kept him breathing until the paramedics got there. I realized that my son would not be here without that 911 dispatcher. My son would not be here without that paramedic bagging him all the way to the hospital. My son wouldn't be here unless they had the skilled doctors and everyone that took care of him. That started me thinking about emergency services."

"That led me on a journey wanting to help one person the way they helped me."

Christensen became a Mills County Communications Center dispatcher in 2002 and has taken thousands of emergency calls during her career, but maybe none that hit as close to home as the call she took last December, just three days before Christmas.

It was a call from the Silver City area that was handed down from the Pottawattamie County Communications Center. It involved a young child that wasn't breathing and turning blue. Initially, Christensen only heard screaming on the other end of the phone, coming from the terrified parents of the child.

It must be April.

The daffodils are in bloom, the grass is turning green and the Glenwood Jazz Band has earned another trophy at state competition.

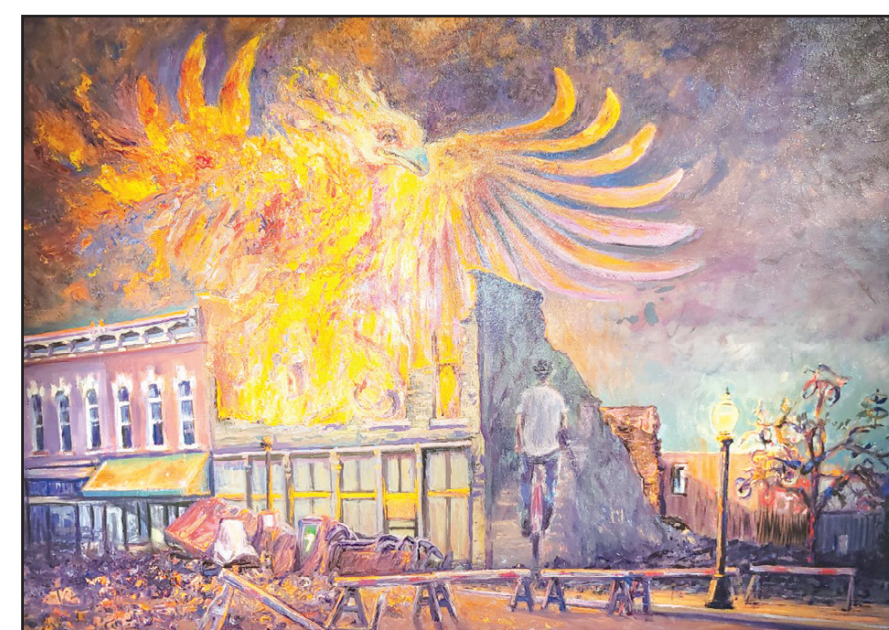

Glenwood's varsity Gold Band finished in fifth place in the Class 3A competition at last week's Iowa Jazz Championships in Ames.

"Another good year of jazz," GCHS Jazz Director Dan Schoening said. "The goal is to get into the top eight in general. The top five is that next tier, so placing fifth was really nice for us."

"Third is the highest we've ever placed. We've gotten fourth a few times, fifth a few times and we've been in the top eight every year since 2010, so it's been quite a nice run."

Pella placed first in the 3A competition at state with Harlan capturing the runner-up trophy. Denison, a member of the Hawkeye 10 Conference with Glenwood and Harlan, also earned a top eight finish. Schoening said there are between 75 and 100 Class 3A jazz bands in Iowa. Several schools, including Glenwood, have more than one band. Glenwood was among 15 bands that qualified for the state competition. A dozen bands qualified by finishing first or second at district competitions and three were selected as

Preview of Mulholland film set for April 24 in Malvern

One tragic night in December 2021, the only grocery store in Malvern, Iowa caught fire and burned to the ground. Although the nearly 150-year-old building was surrounded by fire fighters from 21 communities who fought valiantly to save it, the building and all its history was a total loss.

When the smoke cleared, owner Tom Mulholland had a big decision to make. His family had been in the grocery business there for four generations. Should he rebuild from scratch and continue to serve the community he loved, or just walk away?

He decided to rebuild so the community would once again have local access to the fresh produce, Bissen, who has served as Glenwood Community High School's activities director since 2012, will receive a $10,000 raise as part of that agreement. Bissen's base salary contract for compensation and benefits for fiscal year 2023 is $110,858. That figure for fiscal year 2024 will increase to $120,950.

"We are excited that Mr. Bissen agreed to the terms of his contract, and we're excited about the opportunities ahead to focus on the betterment of our student athletes and students involved in co-curricular activities," Portrey said.

Bissen, 37, and his wife are both Harlan natives. Turning down a return home wasn't easy. But at the end of the day, Bissen said, staying in Glenwood was in his and his family's best interest.

"The process was tough because we had an opportunity to go home where we have family and friends," Bissen said. "On the flip side, we had an opportunity to continue to make this our home which we have done for the last 12 years."

Bissen is considered one of the top activities directors in the region. In 2020, he was named one of eight finalists – and the only one hailing from Iowa – for the National High School Athletic Coaches Association Athletic Director of the Year. Bissen won the Iowa High School Athletic Director Association Activities Director of the Year for Southwest Iowa in 2017, the same year he was honored as the Southwest Iowa Wrestling Athletic Director of the year by the Wrestling Coaches Association. In 2016, the Iowa Girls Coaches Association awarded him its Basketball Administrator of the Year Award.

Harlan's rumored interest in Bissen had circulated since the March 10 resignation of Cyclone AD Davis Pattee. Glenwood's March board of education meeting brought out an overflow crowd of parents, students and community members to show their appreciation of Bissen and encourage the district to retain him. At Monday's meeting, those supporters got their wish. More than three dozen in the gallery were on hand for the announcement, with some clapping following Portrey's announcement.

"When it came down to making a final decision whether to move and go back home to Harlan, we kept coming back to the fact that we love where we live and there have been a lot of positives for our family to live in Glenwood," Bissen said.

DES MOINES - So what if Glenwood is one of the smallest Class 3A wrestling schools in the state - ranked 60th in enrollment out of the 64 teams in the large-school class.
On the wrestling mat, Glenwood is one of the premiere schools in Iowa, regardless of class.

That point was proven again last weekend at Veterans Auditorium as the Rams muscled their way to a second-place finish in the Class 3A portion of the Iowa State Wrestling Tournament.

Paced by the senior performances of 145-pound state champion Clint Madison and 160-pound runner-up Terry Parham, the Rams tallied 85 points in the three-day extravaganza, falling just four points short of first-place Cedar Falls.

"Our kids came in here believing we could win. It's been one of our goals from the beginning of the season," Glenwood Coach Bob Dyer said. "They (Glenwood's eight state tournament qualifiers) all did a good job, considering we didn't get the best draws. They wrestled hard and they wrestled well."

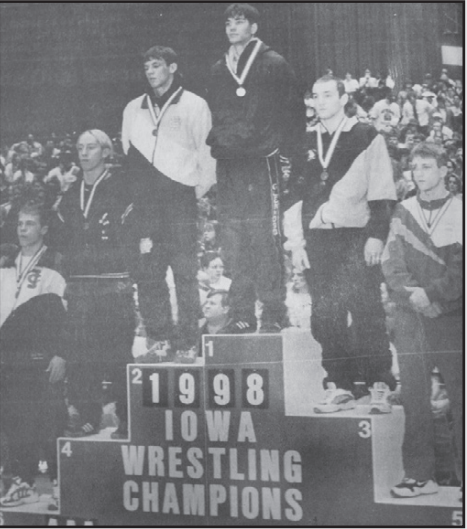

Along with Madison and Parham, Glenwood's state qualifiers were sophomore Jason Black (119), senior Kyle Naughton (130), junior Benn Christiansen (135), junior Justin Crouch (140), senior Marc Kincade (189) and junior Dennis Anderson (275).

Madison's 11-9 overtime win over Sioux City Heelan's Jerry Riecks in Saturday night's championship round was the crowning individual achievement of the tournament for Glenwood.

Parham, who captured the 152-pound championship last year, also made his last appearance at Vets Auditorium a memorable one. He reached the finals with three impressive victories Thursday and Friday. He had pins in his first two matches and then edged Sean Stender of Eldridge, 4-3, in the semis.

In addition to Madison and Parham, four other Glenwood wrestlers made their way to the medal stand Saturday night. Naughton, Crouch and Anderson earned fifth-place medals while Christiansen placed sixth.

March 1998 - Potential post office closures put on hold

JOE FOREMAN/THE OPINION-TRIBUNE
More than 150 Mills County residents turned out at the Silver City Community Hall in 1998 to voice their opposition to the possible closure of post offices in Silver City and Mineola.

Mineola, Silver City post offices will remain open, for now

Excerpt From The Opinion-Tribune
March 25, 1998
Post offices in two Mills County communities - Mineola and Silver City - will keep their operations up and running, at least for now.

A moratorium on post office closings and consolidations was announced last week by Postmaster General Marvin Runyon. The moratorium means the "review" process for the Mineola and Silver City post offices has been put on hold and regular postal service in both communities will continue indefinitely.

Earlier this year, both Mineola and Silver City residents were informed their respective post offices were being reviewed by postal service officials for possible closure or consolidation of services.

At a public meeting in late January, more than 150 residents turned out at the Silver City Community Hall to voice their concerns about the review process and its possible consequences.

"We don't want to settle for anything less than a full-service post office (with a postmaster)," Silver City Mayor Jeff Carper said. "Anything less would be unacceptable.

"This is an important issue that we can't go to sleep on."

Herb Swan, the Great Plains Region Postal Service Review Coordinator, told the audience the review of the Mineola and Silver City post offices began when the facilities lost their postmasters. Both facilities are currently being operated by an officer in charge.

Written and oral opposition to the possible closing or restructuring of the two facilities may have played a role in the postal service's decision to grant a reprieve to towns like Mineola and Silver City, Swan said in a telephone interview last week.

At the meeting in Silver City, residents were urged to voice their concerns about the plan to postal officials.

With the reprieve now in place, residents in both Mineola and Silver City are now focusing on the re-establishment of a postmaster in their respective communities.

Riding the Mormon Trail on the 150th anniversary of migration

Yeah, I know, I've been around a long time. So long I can say I rode in a covered wagon on the Mormon Trail.

Well, sort of.

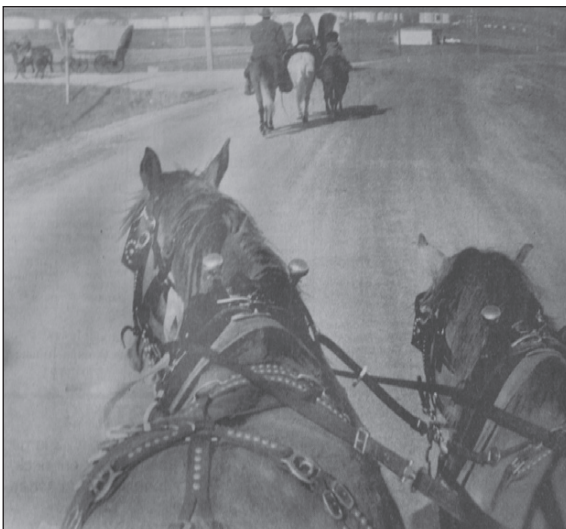

In April 1997, I had the opportunity to spend some time riding in one of the covered wagons traveling across the Great Plains during the 150-year anniversary re-enactment of the famous Mormon Migration from Nauvoo, Ill., to Salt Lake City.

The first leg of the re-enactment, from Nauvoo to Council Bluffs, actually took place in 1996. The journey picked up again in the spring of '97 with more than 100 men, women and children retracing the southern route of the Mormon Migration, known as the Ox Bow Trail.

I spent time riding alongside Glenwood residents Marland and Bev Gammon as the wagon train made its way from Council Bluffs to Pacific Junction for an overnight encampment. As I recall, the trek from Council Bluffs to Pacific Junction took several hours and was the first day of a three-month, 1,100-mile journey to Salt Lake City.

Unlike the original Mormon travelers making their way to Utah for religious freedom, those taking part in the 1997 journey had the luxury of traveling on a paved path for a good part of the ride. In Mills County, the wagon train traveled south on County Road L-31 (195th Street)

Mormon spirit alive on trail

Excerpt From The Opinion-Tribune
April 23, 1997

PACIFIC JUNCTION - The pioneer spirit of the great Mormon Migration could be felt in southwest Iowa Saturday morning.

With sunny skies overhead and temperatures climbing into the 70s, more than 100 courageous travelers began their 1,100-mile journey from Council Bluffs to Salt Lake City, Utah. The trek, being staged in honor of the 150th anniversary of the Mormon Trail ride, is the second leg of a journey that began last year in Nauvoo, Ill.

The men, women and children who began their journey west Saturday are retracing the southern route of the Mormon Migration, known as the Ox Bow Trail. The travelers received a grand sendoff at the Grand Encampment in Council Bluffs, the community first named Kanesville by the original Mormon travelers. The sendoff included a pancake breakfast, entertainment and speeches from several local dignitaries, including wagon master Greg Leger, who is leading the group across the Great Plains.

"I'm honored to take part in this great tribute to the Mormon Migration," Leger said. "The migration is part of the history in this area. We look forward to reliving some of that history."

Leger said the travelers on the journey will experience first-hand some of the hardships the original migrants encountered a century and a half ago.

The trail ride is scheduled to last three months.

"I'm reliving a part of history," trail rider Floyd Hohl of Donnellson, Iowa, said. "I rode the first leg last year from Nauvoo to Council Bluffs. I know what to expect. It wasn't easy."

Saturday's journey took the travelers from Council Bluffs to an encampment in Pacific Junction. Entertainment and a chuck wagon greeted the travelers as they arrived in Pacific Junction, a community located west of Bethlehem, the site of the Mormon's original winter encampment.

October 1997 - Homecoming float goes up in flames on parade route

Most memorable homecoming float over the past 35 years? One I haven't forgotten is the Class of 1999's "Rocket Float" that caught on fire in front of Kaiman's grocery store. Burning smoke balls at the base of the float apparently set off the crepe paper that was used to decorate the rocket ship. High winds helped flames spread as class members jumped out of the truck pulling the tube of flames. The driver of the truck, Ralph Fuoss, alertly drove the burning float directly to a nearby car wash to extinguish the flames.

What will be your wager about God?

God’s offer for everyone to accept His salvation is the greatest gesture of compassion and grace the world has ever known. However, for those who reject His invitation, as the rich young ruler did, choosing to embrace the default and ignoring the divine will be the most devastating decision a person will ever make. The image of a red devil with a pitchfork is not cute or a joke and neither is the holiness of God who has always demanded honor, reverence, and respect. “The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and knowledge of the Holy One is understanding” Proverbs 9:10. Having factual information and accepting it are two profoundly different things and whether we want to admit it or not, we choose whom we will serve every moment.

It’s no secret that seekers of truth have lots of difficult questions. I guess the most important at the end of life is, “How much truth did the seeker find?” and, more importantly, “How much of it did they comprehend and demonstrate?” It’s been said that knowledge is merely the accumulation of information, but wisdom is the understanding of knowledge. We use the concept of levels to describe just how far and how deep we will venture in our quest to know the mysteries and secrets about God and the meaning and purpose of our lives. Sadly, the passion to discover these revelations seem to only matter to a fraction of the population, which is peculiar.

With the help of technology we receive a constant flow of communication at the push of a button and most consider this a blessing. Nonetheless, what the masses fail to realize is that information is commonly mixed with biased and opinionated commentary that contaminates the message, which in turn can distort our perspectives. In this light, things are not always the way they seem, thus the critical need for spiritual discernment. Deception is like an infection of the mind and soul. The modern views about philosophy and spirituality declare that truth is relative to what the individual believes, and there is not a divine standard of truth for everyone to trust and obey. Yet, the Bible is very clear about there only being one God and one truth which means that what we believe has everything to do with whether we are right or wrong. When it comes to our state of being in the next dimension, we do not want to be on the side of error and face judgment for conforming to the culture.

LIVING ON PURPOSE

I’m sure with the hundreds of newspapers that publish this column each week, there are skeptics, agnostics, and maybe even a few atheists that read it and I’m honored. There is a growing audience that is interested to know if anyone can prove that God exists, and this is the most important question anyone could ask. I can give examples of what I believe confirms He is real, but at the end of the day, I cannot knock on God’s door and literally introduce Him to you. There is just as much faith in rejecting God as there is in embracing Him and we are accountable for our choices. In the spirit realm, divine truth is absolute, but in the natural world, there is virtually no absolute proof outside of pure logic and mathematics. For that reason, courtrooms do not require absolute proof to reach a verdict; rather, they seek to present reasonable doubt and consider what’s most probable.

Some have heard of Pascal’s wager which is a pragmatic argument presented by the seventeenth-century French philosopher, and theologian Blaise Pascal (1623-1662). He considered that all human beings wager with their eternal future concerning whether God exists or not. By the way, these decisions are not optional. Merely by existing we are forced to decide even if we are convinced we are not participating at all. Pascal’s presentation basically declares that if we wager that God is just a fairy tale and we are correct, we have lost nothing. However, if we believe that He is real and we love and serve Him, we have gained everything. Yet, many gamble against the odds and will risk losing their souls, knowing there is overwhelming evidence for the reality of God.

Chili Cookoff Sunday at Mills County Museum

Glenwood Rotary is joining with other specialty chili makers from the American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, Kiwanis, Eagles, Lions Club and Knights of Columbus for a chili cookoff Sunday, April 16, from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. at the Mills County Historical Museum’s “ZEUM” building in Glenwood Lake Park.

Patrons who in attendance at the cookoff will have the opportunity to vote for their favorite chili. Desserts, tea and water will be provided with a cash bar also available for alcoholic beverages and soft drinks.

A free-will offering will be accepted at the door. All proceeds from the event will be split between the entrants to go to their favorite local charity projects in the community.

Fun By The Numbers Like puzzles? Then you’ll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

BUNNY BUSINESS IN THE PARK

The Easter Bunny made an appearance at Saturday's Easter Hunt Eggstravaganza at Glenwood Lake Park. Children in the 8-10 year old range are shown here gathering treats and prizes.

The Easter Bunny had a busy day hopping around Glenwood Lake Park Saturday.

There was no candy left behind Saturday at Glenwood Lake Park.

Two-year-old Callie Newman fills her basket with treats.

"When I walked into the building, I knew my search was over."

Richard, Husband of a CountryHouse resident

As his wife of 50 years begun to need more care than he could give, Richard did his research. He knew he had found her new home when he walked into CountryHouse and felt immediately at ease.

"The knowledge and compassion they shared was a place that I felt I could trust. As much as I miss having my wife home, I feel relieved that she is being treated with the utmost care."

Protecting your sexual health is as easy as:
TALK • TEST • TREAT

TALK

- Talk with your partner before having sex.
- Talk about when you were last tested and suggest getting tested together.
- Talk to your healthcare provider about your sex life and ask what STI tests you should be getting and how often.

TEST

- Get tested! It's the only way to know for sure if you have an STI.
- Many STIs don't cause any symptoms, so you could have one and not know.
- If you're not comfortable talking to your regular provider about STIs, find a clinic that provides confidential testing that is free or low cost.

TREAT

- All STIs are treatable. If you test positive for an STI, work with your healthcare provider to get the correct treatment.
- Ask about partner services to get your partner tested and treated.
- Avoid having sex until you and your sex partner both complete treatment.
