Improvements are in the plans for the ballfields at the Glenwood Community Recreation Complex.

Capital campaign planned to help fund upgrades to ballfields

By JOEL STEVENS
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

As the Glenwood Baseball/Softball Club gears up for another season, more than just games are on the club's schedule this spring and summer.

The club that has served Glenwood's youth baseball and softball players for over a decade is gearing up for a capital campaign to upgrade its home at the Glenwood Community Recreational Complex along East Sharp Street. The club is diverse in what is offered; everything from the high-level travel teams that compete at that state and regional level down to the recreational league level with the Council Bluffs youth club and YMCA.

"Every kid in Glenwood can play regardless of their financial or physical means," said Shawn Koehler, president of the GBSC board. "That's an obligation for us. If a kid wants to play in a wheelchair, we'll figure it out. We want every kid to experience baseball if they want to."

The club is currently fundraising as they do most years, offering outfield banners to area businesses, services clubs and organizations. The GBSC is a tax-exempt non-profit, so all donations are tax deductible.

Support has been great, Koehler said. Whatever private funding they get, the club has typically managed to double that donation with grants – and volunteers.

"The more people we have involved, the more banners that go up, the more donors we have, it's really big for grantors because they see the level of support in the community," he said. "Our number of kids involved is outstanding. We're the largest youth sports organization in Glenwood right now and we're continuing to grow. It's exciting."

JOEL STEVENS / THE OPINION-TRIBUNE

The first ballfield at the Glenwood Community Recreational Complex was built in the 1960s.

The GBSC has received large anonymous donations in the past and they're hoping that continues into its next phase of revamping the facilities. The club organized into its current structure 12 years ago and while participation numbers have seen consistent growth, the fields have stayed mostly stagnant.

Since 2019, the club has invested over $45,000 and 2000 volunteer hours in renovating the fields, owned by the City of Glenwood. Along with these investments the club has applied thousands in scholarships and investments in game equipment and gear. All of it funded by banner advertisements, private donations, and grants.

Several financial partners have been critical for this success; The Southwest Iowa Foundation, Rotary Club, Boy Scouts of America, Glenwood Fraternal Order of Eagles, Kiwanis, Lions Club, and other private donors. The investment has had an impact, Koehler said.

In all, more 220 youth athletes take part in the GBSC. The cost to play ranges from $130 to $500 per player. None of those fees goes toward anything outside their cost to play for that season and no child will be turned down from playing.

But field capacity issues and the conditions at the complex are boiling up.

The complex opened with a single field hosting high school games in the 1960s. In the late 1970s' three more fields were added. Since, the complex footprint and infrastructure has changed very

Fremont Co. deputy honored at Peace Officer Memorial

By JOE FOREMAN
EDITOR

Fremont County Deputy Austin "Melvin" Richardson, who died last June while on duty, was one of two law enforcement officers from Iowa remembered Friday during a ceremony at the Iowa Peace Officer Memorial in Des Moines. Coralville Police Sgt. John Karl Williams was also recognized.

Gov Kim Reynolds along with representatives from the Iowa Department of Public Safety, Fremont County Sheriff's office and Coralville Police Department participated in the ceremony. Family members of both law enforcement officers were also in attendance.

Deputy Richardson had just completed a call for service on June 14, 2022, and was traveling in his patrol car on Highway 275 near Hamburg. Upon cresting a hill, Richardson encountered a harvesting combine being operated partially in his lane of the road. Richardson's patrol car collided with the combine, causing him to lose control of the vehicle. Richardson died at the scene of the collision. He had served as a police officer and deputy for 14 years and was a member of two fire and rescue teams. He is survived by his wife, Jennifer, along with their three daughters.

Sgt. Williams responded with his peers to a report of a three-year-old boy who had suffered a gunshot wound to the head on July 3, 2022. During the investigation, Williams advised his fellow officers that he was not feeling well and returned to the police department building. Once there, he began to experience severe chest pain and went into cardiac arrest. Despite lifesaving measures performed by responding paramedics, Williams passed away shortly after arriving at a local hospital – as did the little boy who had suffered the gunshot wound. Williams was a 28-year veteran of the Coralville Police Department. He is survived by his wife, Kim, along with two sons, two daughters, and six grandchildren.

Veteran Middle School teacher receives Charles E. Lakin Award

By JOE FOREMAN

A social studies teacher at the Glenwood Middle School has been named the recipient of the Charles E. Lakin Outstanding Teacher Award.

Kelsey Miller was presented the award during a surprise ceremony last Monday in the school gymnasium. The Charles E. Lakin Outstanding Teacher Award is given annually to four southwest Iowa public school teachers from non-urban schools within a 40-mile radius of Emerson, which was the hometown of the late philanthropist Charles Lakin. Winners of the Lakin Award receive $10,000 for personal use and their respective district receives an award of $2,500.

Miller was among 220 nominees for the award.

"I was definitely surprised," Miller said. "I was just instantaneously overwhelmed but also super appreciative. I work with so many wonderful teachers here at the middle school who are more than deserving of the award, too."

A nomination letter stated Miller develops her students' ability to think fully about complex issues and not tell them what to think, which sets her class apart from many others.

"I ask some compelling questions in class – big idea questions that require the kids to really do some research and investigation into sources and then they can form their opinion based on the evidence that they find.

“Those compelling questions are supposed to really encourage the kids to think about an issue fully and then give them plenty of time to figure out how they feel and why they feel the way they do. We spend a lot of time talking about valid and reliable sources and how to evaluate bias and neutrality.”

Miller said topics of discussion in her classroom often focus on pertinent global issues. Classroom issues this year have included the war in Ukraine, nuclear proliferation and migration.

“Current and contemporary global issues are always changing and evolving so what is taught this year might not be what is taught next year,” she said. “We spend a lot of time building some background knowledge, talking to each other, learning from each other and sharing our ideas because for some kids, current events is definitely not in their realm of what they spend their time doing during the course of a day.”

Miller is in her 13th year as a full-time teacher with the Glenwood Community School District. Prior to her hiring, she was a student teacher in Glenwood while earning her bachelor’s degree from Buena Vista University. Miller’s first nine years in the district were spent teaching special education, with a focus on reading and language arts. She’s in her fourth year teaching social studies classes at GMS.

Miller, who also has a master’s degree from Morningside University, said she enjoys her work and is hopeful someday she can move into a position that would allow her to do some instructional coaching with other teachers.

“Right now, I am really happy to be where I’m at working with students every day and getting to share my passions with history and social studies,” she said. “But, there is so much more reading and critical thinking involved. I’m hoping they’ll take some of those skills into high school and later on into life and have some of those harder conversations and do some harder thinking that we don’t all do.”

Middle School Principal Heidi Stanley said Miller is deserving of the honor.

“Kesley is a very dedicated educator and is passionate about teaching and learning,” Stanley said. “She uses a variety of strategies to engage her students in the learning process.”

Stanley noted that Miller serves as the middle school technology integration teacher and serves on both building and district leadership teams.

“Kelsey is well respected by both her students and her colleagues and is an inspiration to all that are fortunate enough to work with her,” she said.

little, Koehler said.

“There haven’t been a whole lot of additions,” he said. “You go to other towns, and you see the quad-plex (fields) that were built. We have hopes and dreams to do something like that here but right now, we want to make sure we maintain what we have first.”

The club has a list of facilities improvements it hopes to make with private donations, beginning with new scoreboards for fields 3 and 4. The $20,000 funding for that project has already been secured and work is set to begin later this summer.

A plan to flip field 5 from having its backstop, dugouts and bleachers on the south side to the north, near fields 3 and 4 and the nearly completed new restroom and concession stand building is high among the club’s priorities. The restroom/concession stand project is being paid for by the City of Glenwood. The work on field 5 is estimated to cost $100,000.

Koehler said he has board members itching to get to work on field 5 now.

“If we can get enough capital and the materials we need, once the season is over, we might start ripping that field out and flipping it,” Koehler said. “It all depends on how close we are to our capital target to get the materials we need.”

The complex is also in need of a major electrical overhaul estimated to cost more than $250,000. The current system is nearly 40 years old and dangerously out of date. Both fields 4 and 5 are without lights and one light pole on field 3 is not functioning.

Several of the fields also need dugout and bleacher upgrades along with the addition of concrete slabs to prevent spectator areas from turning into mud pits when it rains.

The club has also long desired to construct an indoor field house with a field turf surface to support baseball, soccer and even football off-season work, out of the elements.

“There would be batting cages and wide-open space,” he said. “We’re working hard to identify a place to do that.”

The club currently uses the Glenwood Wrestling Club building and it two batting cages, but space is limited there, Koehler said.

“It limits the number of kids and teams we can get in there,” he said. “Pretty much every minute is taken there in the wintertime, and we have more kids that was to access it and get better and we can’t service everybody right now. We’re hoping to expand on what we have now.”

Ideally, Koehler added, the club would secure an existing building, add turf and renovate for its needs.

There’s no denying the rich history at the current complex, Koehler said. Preserving as much of that history is as important as growing the future of the program.

“Baseball is an old game,” he said. “A lot of these parents played there and now their kids or grandkids play there. One of the things I love is the individual progression of a kid. These kids improve all season, and they remember that first hit or driving in that game-winning run. That stuff sticks with you forever.”

Billy McGuigan to kick off Davies Amphitheater season

The 2023 Davies Amphitheater season kicks off with a bang on Saturday, May 27 when Billy McGuigan brings his high energy act to kick off a 14-week schedule that promises to be one of the best in Davies history.

McGuigan, who has been a mainstay on the Davies stage for nearly two decades, will make his only Omaha area appearance of the summer, and for the first time, Davies Amphitheater Gold Card holders can use their card at the show for an admission discount.

Tickets for the show will be $15, cash or check at the gate. Those who have purchased Gold Cards before the show will get $10 admission for up to two people. Gold Cards are $50 for a Family and $25 for individual. They may be purchased by sending a check to PO Box 415, Glenwood, IA 51534.

“We are really hoping to capitalize on getting Billy this early in the season,” said Davies Amphitheater spokesman Jeff Mitts. “We’re hoping that his many fans who come down from Omaha and surrounding areas will take a look at the rest of the schedule and see that purchasing a Gold Card might be a good investment.”

And after the McGuigan opener, every single show on the schedule is free to Gold Card Holders. “That was some of the feedback we received the last couple of years,” said Mitts. “As great a value as Gold Cards are, there were two or three shows every year that they wouldn’t work for - not this year.”

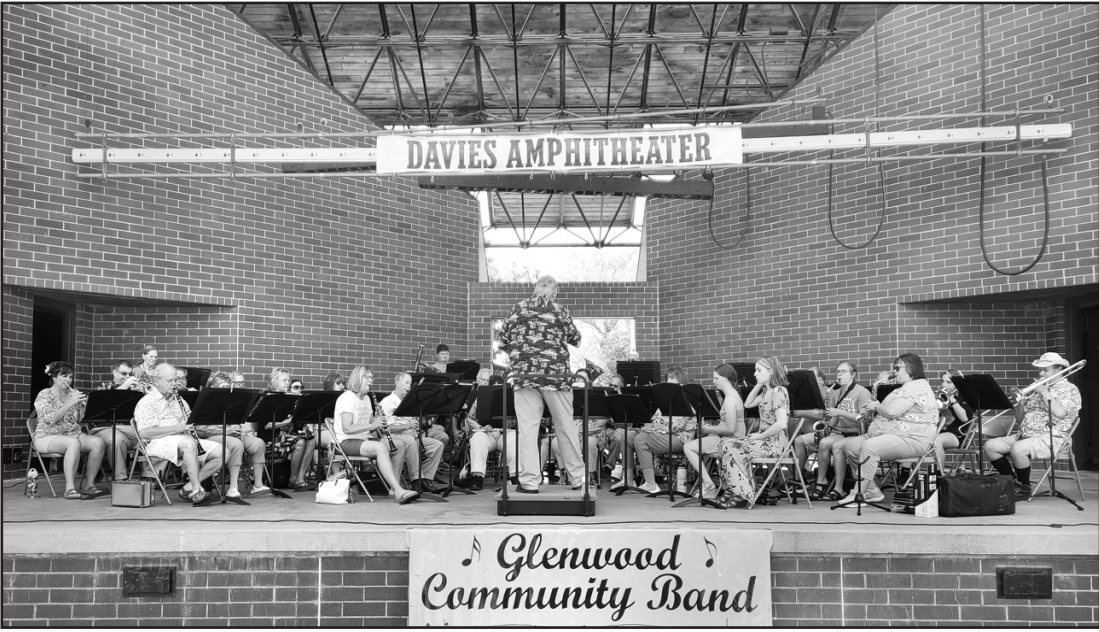

Also for 2023 every show will be sponsored with sponsors given unlimited numbers of free tickets to give out. “Our goal is to get people in the seats,” said Mitts. “We would love to see 500 people out there every weekend enjoying this fantastic facility.”

The rest of the summer schedule is as follows:

Saturday, June 3: Kelly Evans and Those Guys - The Glenwood native has been playing in local bands for over five decades and loves to play his home town.

Bill McGuigan is scheduled to perform at the Davies Amphitheater May 27. The Glenwood Community Band's annual amphitheater concert is set for Aug. 13.

JOE FOREMAN / THE OPINION-TRIBUNE

Sunday, June 11: Acoustic Thieves - The Amphitheater will host annual Mills County Relay For Life on Saturday night, so the Thieves will take the stage for a Sunday show. The trio played last summer and delighted the audience with a mixture of country and classic rock.

Saturday, June 17: High Heel - Back after a one-year hiatus, Lisa Larsen and her group of top-notch musicians will keep you entertained with a highly audience interactive show.

Saturday, June 24: Nebraska Rock and Roll All-Stars - Mark this one on your calendar as one of the must-see shows of the summer. This 14-piece band with brass and horns and multiple vocalists is ready to give top-notch treatment to all of your rock and roll favorites.

Saturday, July 1: Keep Pushin' - REO Speedwagon Tribute - Get ready to Ride the Storm Out as we kick off the long Independence Day weekend with your favorite tunes from the 70s and 80s.

Sunday, July 2: Heartland of America Band - It is always great when you can get the incredible musicians for across the river at Offutt Air Force Base, but when you can get them on the Forth of July weekend, well that just puts the topping on the cake. Come celebrate the season and the spirit of America with this free show.

Saturday, July 8: Come Together Band - All of your favorites from the Fab Four that just never seems to get old.

Saturday, July 15: George Strait Tribute with Dustin West - Dustin has been a regular on the Davies for nearly a decade with his tributes to John Denver, Jimmy Buffett and Johnny Cash. This year it's the many song of country superstar George Strait.

Saturday, July 22: Taxi Driver - Hop in and take a ride with one of Omaha's top cover bands with a night of great music and fun.

Saturday, July 29: Touch of Grey - If classic rock and roll is your thing, then these guys are ready to take you back to all your favorites from the Grateful Dead and many more.

Saturday, Aug. 5: Bozak and Morrissey - From the Ozone to Stocks and Bonds and all the great Omaha venues, these guys ventured out and visited the Davies for the first time last year and rocked the place. They're back to do it again.

Saturday, Aug. 12: Shadow Ridge - Your classic country, line dancing favorites are back to the Davies once again.

Sunday, Aug. 13: Glenwood Community Band - This group of 40-50 local musicians is one of the longest lasting community bands in southwest Iowa. Formed in 2006, the group is nearing its 50th performance with a fun set of summer music.

Saturday, Aug. 19: Tanner Foss Project - spearheaded by Leslie Whitehill in honor of her late son, TFP is a non-profit organization helping kids and local schools and communities realize their full potential by providing opportunities through the arts.

Sunday Aug. 27: Silas Creek - forced to cancel last summer, Silas Creek will keep you dancing all night long with a mix of modern and classic country.

All shows start at 7 p.m. Entertainment is made possible by the Charlie Davies and Raymond Thomas Trusts, as well as a gift from the Wayne and Burdette Lincoln Family, as well as Friends of the Davies Amphitheater.

If you decide not to purchase a Gold Card or are unable to visit many of our fine sponsors for free tickets, admission is $5 per person with kids with parents free. Our fine concession stand is available with

Experiences from a lifetime of volunteerism

It seems most of my life, I have had a habit of sticking my hand up a bit too soon when someone asks – “Do I have a volunteer?”

Since I have an interest in the group or topic, having showed up at the meeting, I think (often wrongly), who better than me could run this? There are usually a LOT of others who could do a better job, but I figure after a short time period, someone else will volunteer to take my place. In this matter, I have been proven wrong more than a few times.

I am pretty good at recognizing talent rather quickly but getting that talented person to take over my duties has always proven difficult. It started back in high school when I offered to be on the ballot for Class Secretary (no one else did), so I was elected in a landslide having no opposition. Then, because I did such a great job my freshman year, I got no opposition the remainder of my high school career, so served four straight years as Secretary. In my military career, at least in the Officer Corp, you get noticed by stepping up to do things no one else wants to tackle.

While this can be good for your career advancement, it does lead to being a bit overwhelmed at times with all those side duties that are not exactly part of the job description. Thus, as the squadron “tax officer”, I would end up helping dozens of guys out each tax season in filing their forms on time from a remote site in England or Korea, or even North Dakota (LOL). I did learn a lot more about our tax system, but dealing with each man’s taxes, and they were all from a different state it seemed, often got a bit confusing for me. Three times I started the investment club where we lived, and each time, ran it until we moved away as no one would step up to take over from me. Happily, here in Glenwood, I am in an investment club I DID NOT start, but I am finding being the Secretary is a busy job in its own right.

Another time, I volunteered to be a Secretary for the Air Force Association in Ohio. Mind you, this was before most had email capacity and with 4800 members, you can only imagine the mailing issues. Luckily, I had my own secretary at work who helped me once a month with those chores. It took a heart stent surgery to give me a break, and during the time I was out, the rumor swept that I had died, so they named a scholarship for me at the university nearby. They were surprised then to see me alive and well a month later but kept the scholarship active to this day.

One year, I organized a three-day road trip for the 50 members of my investment group members of my Ohio group, and it was such a success, I ended up in charge of that every year going forward (almost 12 more years to be exact). The word got out I organized wonderful outings, so our church group wanted me to set up dinner theatre outings and I did that for over a dozen years as well. I think the fact I was working from my home in the insurance industry gave people the idea I didn’t have a job as I was so active elsewhere in the community.

I was asked to join the local Rotary Club back in Ohio and then transferred here to our great local club. Wouldn’t you know it, four years later, I found myself being the President and then for good measure, will repeat it for the coming year. As I visit the Bloom Senior Center a lot, I got asked to fill in on the Board of Directors, so that is now also added to my monthly planner. I really thought that being six years into retirement, I might find lots of free time for working in the yard, seeing the local sites and just lying about. However, my planner has at least one activity a day not related to being ‘retired’. So, in a typical month, I have my Board meeting on the 1st Monday, Knights of Columbus on the 1st Thursday, Rotary meetings on the 1st and 3rd Thursday, Scrabble at the Senior Center each Monday, Bingo at the Zeum every other Wednesday, Daedalions (retired military flyer types) on the 3rd Wednesday and the Republican Club on the 4th Thursday. Throw in my grand-daughter’s volleyball practices every Wednesday and games every Saturday, our investment club on the 3rd Monday, and now I must save some room for our family membership visits to the Durham Museum, the Omaha Zoo, the new Luminarium Science Center, Joslyn (when it reopens next year), and Lauritzen Gardens. Oh, and the UNL Alumni and Foundation.

I also recently rejoined the American Legion and enjoy watching Glenwood sports when I can. I also do Hospice visits on occasion and for over two years after we moved here, I subbed in the local schools, but found that just too tiring for me to be on my feet in my mid 70s.

Keeping up with all these activities can be difficult, especially since I have now forgotten more than I ever knew!

Thank you for support over the years

I have never been one for pomp and circumstance. I tend to enjoy being backstage, watching and listening to those around me.

Don’t get me wrong, I know how to put on a good show of being outgoing, but I’m happiest when it’s just my closest confidants and me.

After leading The Red Oak Express and The Opinion-Tribune in Glenwood through a 500-year flood (March 2019), a pandemic (March 2020), and the sale of our company three times in a few months (July-September 2021), I have accepted a position elsewhere.

MANAGER’S COLUMN

Tess Nelson

General Manager

After being in the newspaper industry since 2005, I am getting out of the business. To be honest, I am looking forward to the change. However, I have no doubt there will be times I will miss it. I have been fortunate to meet so many wonderful people and do so many cool, unique things because of this career choice.

I would like to thank the citizens and business owners of Montgomery and Mills counties for their support over the past several years. I leave the paper in good hands. You will not find a more intelligent, dedicated group of professionals than my employees at the two entities. I will miss them greatly.

You’ll still see me around; just not as much. I remain a member of the Red Oak Chamber & Industry Association and a Red Oak Ambassador member. If I didn’t tell you personally I was leaving, don’t take it to heart, as I said before, balloons and confetti aren’t my style.

In a couple weeks, you will find out where I have gone to and you’ll understand my move.

Again, thanks for the memories. I can’t help but think of the quote by A.A. Milne from The Complete Tales of Winnie-the-Pooh. “How lucky am I to have something that makes saying goodbye so hard.”

School board members deserve our thanks

By TAMMY VOLTAVA

IOWA ASSN. OF SCHOOL BOARDS

The Iowa Association of School Boards (IASB) invites communities to celebrate and thank their local school board members during School Board Recognition Month, May 1-31, 2023. This year’s theme is Developing Iowa’s Future Together and celebrates the work of school board members who are partnering with the school community, students, families, and citizens.

“School board members serve to make a difference for students and ensure they have the building blocks needed for future success. They are committed to student achievement first and foremost-but also tend to the foundational elements, such as the budget, policies, and district culture to make informed decisions impacting the entire community. Please join me throughout the month of May in thanking these board members,” said IASB Board President Liz Brennan.

More than 2,000 Iowa board members (1,857 K-12, 79 AEA and 124 community college board members) volunteer countless hours on board work each month. They receive no compensation, but many say the reward of service is more than enough-helping students prepare for the future.

PK-12 school board members oversee $6.57 billion statewide in Iowa public schools for 486,475 students. AEA board members oversee $393.2 million and provide special education, media and educational services to public schools.

Please join us in celebrating these leaders by thanking them for their hard work and dedication.

‘IF THE GOOD LORD’S WILLING AND THE CREEK DON’T RISE’

Jim Kalhorn and Shelby Spencer are two of the performers in the Mills Masquers' current production - "If The Good Lord's Willing and the Creek Don't Rise." The zany comedy will close with three performances this weekend at the Barton-Rowe Theater north of Glenwood. Show times are 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets may be purchased online at www.millsmasquers.com or by calling 712-527-3600 and leaving a message.

Master Gardeners holding annual plant sale Saturday

The annual Mills County Master Gardener Plant Sale will be held on Saturday, May 13, from 8:30 - 11 a.m. in Glenwood on the Plaza parking lot, located at 900 S. Locust St.

This is a sale of plants grown and donated by Master Gardeners and others from the community. The plants are high quality, low cost annuals, perennials and vegetable plants started from seed, along with one of kind garden art that is made just for the sale by the Master Gardener community.

The Master Gardeners will also be holding a raffle of unique garden-themed items. All of the funds raised during the plant sale are used for Master Gardener programming, including scholarships and community grants for Mills County.

The funds from this plant sale helps make many projects possible. For more information, or if you wish to donate plants, contact the Mills County Extension and Outreach office at 712-624-8616.

Preventing the seeds of unforgiveness

How much grace does it take to love our enemies? That's a good question. Tragedies occur all around us and it's true we are heartbroken and disturbed, but how do we react when our family is harmed or we are personally offended? I admit that I do not always have the character of Christ when I'm being threatened or provoked to anger. Our natural reaction is to retaliate because that's a natural part of our carnal nature. Most of us agree that people need to be punished for their evil deeds, but Christians must remember the temptation to hold unforgiveness against anyone must be resisted. Yes, we will face challenges and situations that attempt to lure us into loathing attitudes but, it's forgiveness and love that keeps us on the narrow way of peace and contentment.

When we dwell on retaliation, our joy which is our spiritual strength evaporates and we become weak and discouraged. The brooding desire for revenge will emotionally, mentally, and spiritually hold us in the bondage of misery. If we allow ourselves to become weighed down with animosity, our relationship with God suffers which is why it's so important to not become entangled with the poison of hatred.

Do you secretly have resentment against someone today? Let us remember this internal agonizing battle is not forced upon us, we decide to participate. Our natural mind loves to justify corrupt attitudes, and if we continue to focus on vengeance instead of asking for God's help we are allowing the darkness of sin to control and hold us hostage. Sadly, many would rather live in the agony of hostility instead of releasing their agony to God and allowing Him to execute vengeance and justice His way.

LIVING ON PURPOSE

Dr. Billy Holland

As a chaplain, I remember a few years ago being called by a healthcare facility to pray for an elderly gentleman that was near death. He was barely able to understand or communicate because of the heavy doses of morphine. His son was sitting next to the bed and after a while, he started to talk about his dad. They were not close, and he began to describe a man that was not only harsh and uncaring but abusive. I could sense the deep emotional pain as he began to tell a sad story about a disappointed and wounded family. The son was a Christian and had been dealing with resentment for years. As he continued to share about the power of forgiveness, I could sense the love and peace of God in his countenance. If we sincerely repent and ask the Lord to step into our situation, He is the only one who can bring true hope and healing to our hearts and minds.

When watching a toddler, we notice they react to basic experiences of hunger, affection, disappointment, happiness, and anger but are only beginning to learn what it means to be offended. Resentment and bitterness are negative attitudes and it's only through inviting Christ to become our Lord and allowing His truth to transform our minds that we can be molded into His way of merciful thinking. He wants us to be honest with Him and not suppress these ugly imaginations that not only can build a wall between us and the Lord, it also makes us toxic to those around us. Just how serious is unforgiveness? Matthew 6:14-15 says, "If you forgive those who sin against you, your heavenly Father will forgive you. But if you refuse to forgive others, your Father will not forgive your sins."

Hatred is silent but deadly and is like a growing infection that can desensitize us from having compassion for anyone or anything. Since the Christian's greatest asset is love, the enemy of our soul will use anything he can to prevent us from forgiving and praying for others. May we never discard our responsibility to humbly serve and obey Christ because we are blinded by our plans to get even with someone. Whatever they have done to hurt us, we have the choice to let it go so that we can live in the joy of God's presence. Some may boldly declare they cannot forgive but this is not true. Forgiveness is a choice as the Bible reminds us in Proverbs 13:18, "Poverty and shame will come to those who refuse instruction: but they who embrace correction will be honored."

Alexis Bird initiated into Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society

Alexis Bird of Glenwood was recently initiated into The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, the nation's oldest and most selective all-discipline collegiate honor society. Bird was initiated at University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Bird is among approximately 25,000 students, faculty, professional staff and alumni to be initiated into Phi Kappa Phi each year. Membership is by invitation only and requires nomination and approval by a chapter. Only the top 10 percent of seniors and 7.5 percent of juniors are eligible for membership. Graduate students in the top 10 percent of the number of candidates for graduate degrees may also qualify, as do faculty, professional staff and alumni who have achieved scholarly distinction.

New Trails To Open At Hitchcock Nature Center

The public is invited to join Pottawattamie Conservation and the Loess Hills Nordic Ski Patrol on National Trails Day, which is Saturday, June 3, for a public ribbon cutting, presentation, and the official opening of four new hiking trails at Hitchcock Nature Center near Honey Creek. New trails will be accessible through the park's current trail system and loop through 500 acres of newly acquired land, including the 106-acre Mt. Crescent Ski Area.

Trailblazer Bonanza will kick off at 1 p.m. at Hitchcock Nature Center's Loess Hills Lodge and is free for all ages with a $5 per vehicle park entry fee or a Pottawattamie Conservation Foundation membership. Guided trail hikes will immediately follow the public presentation and will be led by the Loess Hills Nordic Ski Patrol.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
